A DAY AT THE RANCH

Mrs. S. Solomon is in Concord, N. Play Presented by The Open House and Haile Clubs Fill. ed Broadway Theater with Enthusiastic Audience

Mrs. Mary A. Williams of Mystic spent Wednesday with friends in Montville. The second effort of the Open House and Haile clubs in the presentation of amateur theatricals was given its initial performance at the Broadway theater on Friday evening before an audience which filled the house, and many were standing. Each number brought forth enthusiastic applause and encores were demanded for all, so that the audience in general gave indication of their appreciation. The large gathering showed the great interest in the Open House and Halle clubs, and they will realize a good sized sum from the venture, it is believed, as the sale for tonight is practically for the entire house, and a third presentation will be given Monday evening.

Orchestra, F. H. Geer, director. The participants in the play did not have an opportunity to have a dress rehearsal at the theater this year and considering that fact the result was highly pleasing to Mr. and Mrs. Rodenbaugh, who, with the local assistants, have had charge of the training.

The stage setting shows a western ranch with a tepee surrounded with a white birch fence, and it serves for both parts. The costumes are all of a striking character, appropriate for the several chorus numbers. The sololists were heard with excellent results and the dances and marching were well executed. Without doubt the hit of the evening was made by the children, who, as last year, filled the stage, graduated as to size, and sang two numbers, with Misses Lucille Lord and Gladys Elliot as soloists. The soloists sang in fine voice and the children joined in the chorus in The Voodoo Man with pleasing effect. In the Lanky Yankee Boys in Blue they waved flags, making an attractive feature. As the ranch owner, Dr. Clarence B. Capron made a royal host, entertaining many interesting characters at his home. James P. Sheridan as Arizona Pete, the foremen, struck terror to the hearts of the tenderfeet, while Philip Sheridan as Mike Rafferty and Charles E. Case as Dusty Rhodes, the latter arriving in an auto, entertained with their dialect jokes and repartee. Clarence Messinger as Ikey Einstein and J. J. C. Stone as Fritz Bummelhelmer were fine, both as to makeup and impersonation. Leon Young as Ham Bone and Irving Drake as Uncle Silas were very good, while Thomas B. Linton as the Indian chief had a striking makeup but little to say. Miss Bertha Woodmansee was the Indian princess, in which role she was decidedly good. Both of the latter with Miss Elizabeth Hauck had solos in the Wild West overture and all were heard with delight, others joining in in the chorus. Leave to amend the complaint was granted in the case of T. C. Murphy vs. C. H. Schwarner. In the case of Coy vs. Mistuxet club there was a hearing on a motion for a more specific statement and for a copy of the lease. It was overruled,

They were as follows: I'm Awfully Glad I Met You as sung by Miss Helen Barber and chorus was heartly received, while the Wilhel-mina number as sung by Miss Gladys Elliott, assisted by three others, was a decidedly pleasing number.
